About the Course

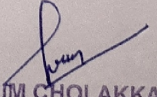

The course is framed to provide an experiential learning. You will learn about survey research by designing and conducting research by using different survey methods. The course is relevant to both quantitative and qualitative researchers who want to understand the nuts and bolts of survey methods. The basic theoretical concepts for conducting survey research, the method of analysis and final report writing are included in the course. This course is offered to UG third semester students of department of economics every year. The total number of students in the third semester BA Economics is the strength of this course.

Course Objectives

1. To provide an understanding of fundamentals of social research
2. To discuss the different forms of research and its applications
3. To understand various tools, techniques and methods of data collection and to identify their applications in different contexts.
4. To provide a survey experience through field survey
5. To make use of Microsoft Excel and SPSS for data analysis

Expected Course Outcome

This course helps to improve both theoretical and practical knowledge in survey research. It provides a real field experience in data collection. It provides the knowledge to apply different statistical tools properly. It provides the knowledge to use the statistical packages for social science research –Moreover it improves the employability of students as a researcher.

SOCIO ECONOMIC SURVEY IN THE WARD 07 OF PALLIKKAL GRAMA PANCHAYATH

As part of the practical modules of certificate course in survey research, the Department of economics conducted a Socio Economic Survey in the Ward 07 (Kumminiparamba) of the Pallikkal Grama Panchayath on the 20th 21st and 22nd of February 2019. As part of the Survey, the students of the department collected data on the socio economic conditions of the families residing in the ward by visiting around 300 houses in three days. A total of 58 students participated in the Survey. The students will analyze the collected data and the Report will be submitted to the authorities concerned.
