Trekking

Thiruvonamala

22/09/23
Friday

Introduction

The objectives of trekking for cadet students of a college can encompass a variety of educational, physical, and personal development goals. Here are some common objectives:

- 1. Physical Fitness:: Trekking provides an excellent opportunity for cadets to enhance their physical fitness. It helps improve stamina, endurance, and overall health.
- 2. Team Building:: Trekking often involves working as a team to navigate challenging terrain and overcome obstacles. It fosters teamwork, cooperation, and trust among cadets.
- 3. Leadership Development:: Some cadets may take on leadership roles during a trek, helping them develop leadership skills, decision-making abilities, and problem-solving capabilities.
- 4. Environmental Awareness:: Trekking in natural environments promotes an understanding of and appreciation for the environment. Cadets can learn about conservation, ecology, and the importance of protecting natural resources.
- 5. Self-Reliance:: Trekking encourages self-reliance as cadets learn to take care of themselves and their equipment in challenging conditions.
- 6. Cultural Exchange:: Depending on the location, trekking may involve interaction with local communities and exposure to different cultures, broadening the cadets' horizons.
- 7. Character Building:: Overcoming physical and mental challenges during a trek can help build character, resilience, and determination.
- 8. Outdoor Skills:: Cadets can acquire valuable outdoor skills such as navigation, camping, first aid, and survival techniques.
- 9. Confidence Building:: Successfully completing a trek can boost cadets' self-confidence and self-esteem, as they realize their ability to overcome difficulties.
- 10. Educational Experience:: Trekking can also be an educational experience, where cadets learn about geography, geology, flora, and fauna in a hands-on way.
- 11. Stress Relief:: Being in nature and away from the usual routine can provide stress relief and relaxation, improving mental well-being.
- 12. Community Engagement:: Some treks may include community service or volunteer opportunities, allowing cadets to give back to local communities.

Report

1) Trekking :

NCC of EMEA College, Kondotty, organized a trekking expedition to Thiruvona Mala near the tourist destination Mini Ootty on September 22, 2023.

The meticulously planned event required all cadets to assemble at the college by 7:45 in the morning. Under the guidance of our esteemed ANO (Associate NCC Officer) Lt Abdul Rasheed P, instructions and preparations were diligently conveyed to the enthusiastic cadets. Additionally, two other teachers accompanied us to enhance the overall trekking experience.

Our journey commenced promptly at 8:30 a.m. as we embarked on a bus to reach the trekking base. We arrived safely at our destination at 9:30 a.m. The entire group of cadets, including the new recruits, displayed palpable excitement and remarkable energy throughout the journey. To infuse even more fun and camaraderie into the expedition, we engaged in games, dancing, and singing while en route.

Each cadet equipped with the necessary supplies such as water, snacks, newspapers, and umbrellas. The collective energy and enthusiasm propelled us forward, and upon reaching the summit, we shared snacks while reveling in the awe-inspiring panoramic view.

We then gathered at a serene spot, where we organized a friendly game to foster deeper connections, especially for the new cadets who were participating in their inaugural NCC program. ANO Lt. Abdul Rasheed facilitated a meaningful and insightful interaction session, enriching the experience for all.

Subsequently, we embarked on our descent, concluding a day filled with joy, learning, and bonding. It was a truly memorable and cherished day for everyone involved.
