Prof. Ram Puniyani

India or Bharat :
What is in a Name?

IQAC and Department of Political Science

Department of Political Science, EMEA College of Arts and Science Kondotty hosted a thought-provoking lecture titled "India or Bharat: What's in a Name?" featuring the distinguished speaker, Ram Puniyani as part of the Ruby Jubilee Celebration. The lecture aimed to explore the historical, cultural, and political dimensions underlying the debate surrounding the names 'India' and 'Bharat', delving into the implications of nomenclature in shaping national identity and discourse.

Prof. Ram Puniyani commenced the lecture by tracing the historical and cultural significance of the names 'India' and 'Bharat'. He provided insights into the diverse linguistic, religious, and regional connotations associated with each name, highlighting their resonance with India's rich and pluralistic heritage. He discussed how colonial rulers imposed certain identities and narratives onto Indian society, including the name 'India', which has persisted in post-independence discourse. The lecture also addressed the resurgence of the name 'Bharat' in contemporary political discourse, particularly among proponents of cultural nationalism. Puniyani analyzed the ideological motivations behind the preference for 'Bharat' over 'India' and its implications for national identity and symbolism. The lecture explored the political implications of the debate over the names 'India' and 'Bharat', including their usage in official documents, constitutional provisions, and public discourse. Puniyani encouraged attendees to critically examine the underlying power dynamics and socio-political agendas shaping the choice of nomenclature.

Following the lecture, an engaging question-answer session allowed attendees to further explore the complexities of the topic with Ram Puniyani. Students raised insightful questions regarding the role of language in nation-building, the implications of name changes for historical continuity, and the potential for inclusive representations of national identity.

The lecture by Ram Puniyani on "India or Bharat: What's in a Name?" provided attendees with a nuanced understanding of the historical, cultural, and political dimensions underlying the debate over nomenclature. His insightful analysis encouraged critical reflection on the complexities of national identity and symbolism in India. The Department of Political Science extends its appreciation to Ram Puniyani for his enlightening discourse and looks forward to continued engagement on issues of national significance.

Report

PG Department of History and West Asian Studies organized Seminar on Nationalism, Constitution and Democracy: The Idea of India on 11-09-2023. The inaugural session was welcomed by Mr. Muhammed Shafi T., (Assistant Professor, Department of History West Asian Studies). Prof. K.M. Aboobacker (Secretary, EMEA Institutions) presided over and inaugurated by Mr. Firos K.T., (Head, PG Department of History and West Asian Studies). The keynote address was delivered by Dr. Ashraf Valoor (Head, Department of Political Science) and Felicitation by Dr. Nisar U. and Sehla Kansah P. The inaugural session was ended with the Vote of thanks by Mr. Muhammed Ramees K.P. (Student Coordinator). 54 students were actively participated in the seminar.

The Idea of India

The India that was born in 1947 was in a very real sense a new creation. Indian nationalism was not based on any of the conventional indices of national identity. Not language, not ethnicity, not religion, not geography was hacked and not even territory, since, by law, anyone with one grandparent born in pre-partition India – outside the territorial boundaries of today’s state – is eligible for citizenship. Indian nationalism has therefore always been the nationalism of an idea.

It is the idea emerging from an ancient civilisation, united by a shared history, sustained by pluralist democracy. India’s democracy imposes no narrow conformities on its citizens. The whole point of Indian pluralism is you can be many things and one thing: you can be a good Muslim, a good Keralite and a good Indian all at once. The Indian idea is the opposite of what Freudians call “the narcissism of minor differences, in India we celebrate the commonality of major differences. If America is famously a “melting-pot”, then to me India is a thali, a selection of sumptuous dishes in different bowls. Each tastes different, and does not necessarily mix with the next, but they belong together on the same plate, and they complement each other in making the meal a satisfying repast. So the idea of India is of one land embracing many. The Indian idea is that a nation may endure differences of caste, creed, colour, conviction, culture, cuisine, costume and custom, and still rally around a consensus. And that consensus is around the simple idea that in a democracy you don’t really need to agree – except on the ground rules of how you will disagree.

India’s founding fathers wrote a constitution for their dreams; we have given passports to their ideals. India’s founding fathers wrote a constitution for their dreams; we have given passports to their ideals.
